

Dear {{ contact.FIRSTNAME }},

This month, we're opening new opportunities for artists, changemakers, and aspiring entrepreneurs to take action. From two exciting Artivism open calls and the launch of FastForward applications, to new milestones from the Inclusive Policy Making and Governance hub, this issue highlights how creativity, collaboration, and civic participation are driving more inclusive communities across Europe and beyond.

Thank you for being part of the PLACE community. We hope you enjoy this issue of the LoudSpeaker!

ART, CULTURE & SOCIETY

Artivism Without Borders: Open Call for Young Refugee & Migrant Artists

Are you a refugee or migrant artist, creative, or emerging artist aged 18–35 and based in Île-de-France (France) or Kampala (Uganda)?

Artivism Without Borders is a unique AU–EU youth exchange that brings together young creatives to co-create powerful artistic projects that challenge stereotypes and advocate for more inclusive narratives on migration, identity, and belonging.

From September 2026 to May 2027, participants will take part in collaborative Artivism Labs, workshops, exhibitions, and cross-cultural exchanges while building a lasting international network of changemakers.

INCLUSIVE POLICY MAKING & GOVERNANCE

PACT Roundtable on Minority Political Participation in France

On 6 July, the PACT project hosted a roundtable on the political participation of minorities in France. The event brought together elected officials, experts, and community voices to reflect on what local elections reveal about minority representation, share lived experiences from public office, and discuss concrete pathways towards more inclusive governance ahead of the upcoming presidential elections.

ParticipAction Reaches Its Next Milestone

Following the successful completion of the workshop series, ParticipAction has entered its next phase. In July, participants from across Europe came together for an online Transnational Debate to select the policy paper that will be presented to policymakers in Brussels this September, marking an important step in ensuring young people's ideas and recommendations reach the European level.
